Today's passage said that Simon was continually amazed at what God was doing through Philip. What has amazed you this week?

Did you remember to thank him?

Rob said that today's passage was somewhat "choose your story" and that the message was based on some interpretive decisions he made.

Do you think Simon was really a Christian? What parts of the passage do you look to make that decision (more simply, why or why not)?

We are beginning to hear the stories of specific conversions in Acts. It may be nice to take some time hearing each other's stories of coming to Christ (there should be no pressure here, and perhaps 1 person a week is the best way to go about this).

In what ways does your life demonstrate a partial conversion?

In what ways does your life demonstrate an attempt to control God?

Where have you failed to do your part?
