Have you ever had an experience of making a mistake with the price of an object or perhaps the one selling you the item made the mistake? What is the biggest mistake you have experienced regarding price? (like $1,200 restaurant bill because of misplaced decimal point)

Rob said the greatest call was to want the King and his kingdom more than anything.

What do you think of that?

Do you agree with Rob's statement that "We are always saying with our choices 'this is more valuable than that.'"?

Contemplate and discuss what the connection between joy and kingdom is in Matt. 13? (There is not right answer as far as I know)

Depending on groups cohesion and comfort (otherwise just ponder): what area of your life have you or are you struggling with the price tags (right priorities)?

Share and Prayer

If you are bored, you may want to talk about Rob's musings about the Image of God. Does your view fit into one of the categories he shared? How do you understand it?

What do you think of his idea of connecting it to our ability to correctly make determinations of value?
